

Racism

This is a topic too-long ignored – even on this Web site – because of its societal and spiritual complexity. I wish I had addressed this sooner, but a certain TV series¹ got me to thinking about how reprehensible, foul, and utterly disgusting this aberration of the human soul is, that I felt I must at least touch on the topic – if only to express my utter disgust for those unfortunate souls whose mind and spirit have been contaminated with the notion that some human beings are less human than they are.

One sees racism in the prison system all the time, and that is to be expected, because prisoners in US Gulags² have precious little else to occupy their time with, other than to fill their minds with the psychobabble of “therapy” which serves only to cause them to dwell on things that are past and cannot be changed; effectively driving them closer to the brink of insanity. In order for you to fully understand this, and the empirical truth of it, you should read the following pages on my Web site:

and read the book “In The Belly of The Beast” by Jack Henry Abbott

But I digress. Racism is a contagion. It is a virulent, mind-eating infection that is acquired by social contact with infected individuals. It is an airborne virus that travels via vibrations in the air; it is a parasite that usurps the power of inspirational speech, and has used the talents of the world’s best orators (Adolph Hitler) to propagate through the populations of entire countries.

The roots of modern racism are planted in the idea that some human beings are superior to other human beings – either mentally or genetically – based solely upon the color of their skin, or by their heritage. This idea in turn, is based upon Darwin’s theory of Evolution, which has been proven to be wrong hundreds of times by empirical science – but we still hear the word “evolution” bandied about as if it were true. Yes, there is “Natural Selection”, and variations within a certain type of animal such as dogs or cats – but without genetic manipulation, no dog has ever sired a cat, or cat-dog mix, and therefore “evolution” cannot create sentient beings from “BIG BANGS” or rocks, and it is NOT what most people have been taught to believe these last 50 some-odd years.

The roots of racism run deep, but the “food” that nourishes the “tree” in modern times is the mistaken belief that life on Earth “evolved” – ultimately from rocks and minerals – and even the Catholic Church as far back as 1948 capitulated to this “science falsely so-called”. See:

And yes, the tenets of Psychology and Psychiatry have their core-beliefs rooted in this nonsense as well, as does the Nazi Holocaust. See:

One thing that the racists fail to realize is that the genetic diversity (as small as these genetic differences are) among humans provides the human race with the ability to survive changing conditions on the planet.

The FACT that humans share over 90% of their DNA with monkeys does NOT mean that monkeys and humans share the same ancestors – only that they are made of the same “stuff” – flesh and blood. The best Web site I’ve seen on this is www.DrDino.com³

Science has proven that genetic stagnation creates fertile ground for disease and birth control⁴ – and the Bible’s prohibition (after the human race got started with Adam and Eve and their descendants) against marrying one’s close relatives supports this fact long before it could be proven by science. The racists who tend to marry within their perceived “race”, are opening themselves up for inherited genetic diseases, and mental retardation – which may explain why 2nd and 3rd generation Fascists and other racists inevitably become mentally deficient.

So my message to you, short and sweet, is simply this:

Love thy neighbor as thyself..... if you don’t, you’re probably a retard.

⁴ This is why a genetic screening is advisable before marriage, and some states require a blood test to screen for known genetic defects.
